FIGHTING DEATH.

How Robert Jamison of Pennsylvania Tried to Die.

A Crazy Suicide—The Motives for the Deed—A Terrible Struggle With an Insane Man—What the Wife and Sister of the Victim Have to Say.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 30.—Robert M. Jamison, aged forty years, of No. 507 Green street, in this city, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor at his residence shortly before 6 o'clock. He had recently been dismissed from his position of civil engineer on the German-town & Norristown railroad, and this, it is thought, so preyed on his mind as to lead to the taking of his life.

For several weeks past the deceased had manifested signs of melancholia, but medical aid was not thought necessary. Dr. L. W. Reed was then summoned, and, after prescribing sedatives, advised his patient to rest in bed and that a nurse be hired to attend him. Mr. Jamison followed these directions and shortly afterwards, his brother-in-law, Mr. James O. Barnett, who lives in the house, entered the room. Mr. Jamison asked him if he had a revolver, and on Mr. Barnett's replying, "To drive you out of the house," this was the first symptom that the patient's mind was really deranged, as his relations with his brother-in-law had hitherto been of a friendly nature.

At about 5:45 in the morning he left his bed and went to the window. His wife and sister looked him back into bed again. He patted the former's cheek as she drew the sheet over him, then suddenly leaped out on the floor and rushing to the bureau, pulled out a razor, which had been secreted in the back of one of the drawers. With a shriek his wife and sister sprang to snatch the weapon from his grasp, but he had already commenced slashing at his throat. A terrible struggle followed. Mr. Barnett tried to save his brother-in-law, but was compelled to flee from the room to save his own life. Mrs. and Miss Jamison battled bravely with the madman, but with the blood streaming from a gaping gash he dragged the two females to the top of the stairway leading down to the hall, where he succeeded in freeing himself from their grasp. He then made several more slashes at his throat, severing the carotid arteries, and rolling to the hallway below expired almost instantly. Mrs. Jamison ran to the window of the room, which is on the second story, and, throwing open the shutters, waved her blood-covered arms and frantically yelled murder. Two neighbors, Mrs. John H. Boyer and William H. Laddis heard her cries and at once summoned Chief of Police Rodenbaugh. They burst in the street door and entered the hall, where a sickening sight met their view. Extended on the floor lay the just expiring suicide covered from head to foot with blood. The stairway and wall, as well as the room above, were bespattered with blood. On all sides over the course taken by the suicide were evidences of the desperation with which he fought to take his life and of the heroic struggle of the two ladies who tried to avert the catastrophe.

News of the sad affair spread to all parts of the town, and soon an excited and inquiring crowd collected in front of the house. Coroner Aiken was notified, and permission was given to bury the body.

Besides being dismissed from his position it appears that Mr. Jamison last week failed to sell some property belonging to an estate of which he was executor. This fact also added to his melancholy. He leaves two young daughters, who last week were on a visit with their mother at Easton, Pa. While there Mrs. Jamison received a telegram from her husband stating that she need not hurry home, as he was taking care of the children. This also was an evidence of the unsoundness of his mind. Mrs. Jamison at once came home. Some time ago Mr. Jamison was partially blind and underwent a surgical operation to his eyes.

A NEW COMPANY.

An All-Rail Route Between the Hudson and Pennsylvania Coal Fields.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 30.—A new railroad company has been organized under the title of the Kingston, Warwick and Easton Railway. It proposes to build a new line of road from Montgomery Orange county, the southern end of the Wallkill Valley Railroad—a late purchase of the New York, West Shore and Buffalo—to a point at or near Grey Court, the eastern terminus of the Lehigh and Hudson River Railway. The connection thus made is to form an all-rail line between Kingston, N. Y., and Easton, Pa. under one management, which will be the shortest possible route for the transportation of Lehigh coal from the Pennsylvania coal fields, the upper Hudson River, and points in Central New York reached by the New York, West Shore and Buffalo also to points in New England via Newburg. In addition to ordinary freight traffic the new route will carry large tonnage of iron ore back from Lake Champlain and other mines along the Hudson River into Pennsylvania. The new route will save in distance between the mouth of the Lehigh and the upper Hudson river, as compared with existing routes, about 50 per cent. The directors of the new company are Edward F. Winslow, General Horace Porter, of the West Shore; President Grinnell Burr, of the Lehigh and Hudson; Theodore Houston, Daniel R. Halstead, William C. Sheldon, Henry H. McHarg, Howard Mansfield, John H. Seed, Charles Paine, George W. Sanford, Frederic P. Olcott and John S. Martin. The Board of Directors organized by electing the following officers: Grinnell Burr, President; Theodore Houston, Vice President; F. E. Worcester, Secretary and Treasurer.

LOVESICK.

A Clerk Made Ill by the Gentle Post, mistress of Cambridge.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 30.—Miss Orissa Bragdon, the Superintendent of the Cambridge postoffice, a branch of the Boston office, is under a cloud. Charges have been preferred against her by Postmaster Tobey, of Boston, that she has opened letters addressed to her first assistant, Mr. Thomas R. Trundy, and also that she has bullied and abused him so that he is now seriously ill from mental misery. The wife of the abused man has made complaint that her husband has been persecuted by the postmistress, and that she has opened Mr. Trundy's mail, both in his absence and in his presence; and upon one occasion had torn up his letters before his eyes, after reading them and before he had perused them. One of these letters is said to have been written to Mr. Trundy by Congressman Morse. Mrs. Trundy says that Miss Bragdon's conduct is caused by ambition and jealousy. Postmaster Tobey was seen and declined to express any opinion about the matter except to say that Mrs. Trundy had written him a letter making complaints and he had replied to it telling her that when Trundy got well he would like to see him; also that Mr. Trundy was an excellent man and an appointment of his. Miss Bragdon is a very large lady, with full features and probably forty years of age. She appeared to be surprised when told of Mr. Trundy's condition and how people held her responsible for it. At first she denied everything, but afterwards admitted that she had opened some mail addressed to Mr. Trundy. She asserted that all the trouble had been caused by Mrs. Trundy.

BOSTON'S WILL CASE.

Heirs Seeking to Recover $400,000 Given to an Agent.

BOSTON, Sept. 30.—The trial of the Abigail W. Armstrong will case began here. The contestants are the heirs-at-law of Mrs. Armstrong, who claim that Warren K. Blodgett exercised an undue influence over her. The amount the heirs seek to recover is nearly $400,000, which includes $100,000 paid to Mr. Blodgett for the management of Mrs. Armstrong's estate, and the balance consists of United States bonds and other securities which, it is alleged, she gave him while in an unsound condition of mind.

A variety of very curious allegations are made in behalf of the heirs, and the case creates a grand sensation among a large number of wealth families.

Mrs. Armstrong died about six months ago at her residence on Beacon street. The house outwardly had every appearance of luxury, but within was anything but comfortable. Only the kitchen and a room on the second story was used. Mrs. Armstrong lived out a miserable existence, using broken china and silverware, and apologized for them by saying she was too poor to afford others. Her food was generally scanty and poor.

Mr. Blodgett asserts that in 1872 Mrs. Armstrong prevailed upon him to give up stantially all his other business and devote himself to the care of her property, the consideration being the sum of $100,000, and that the other securities he had received were voluntary gifts of Mrs. Armstrong, who died early in 1883, eleven years after he took charge of her property. The case will probably occupy the court for two weeks.

FIVE ATTEMPTS.

Desperate Efforts of a Young Woman to Die.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—A well-dressed young woman was found in an unconscious condition on the pavement at West College and Girard avenues. She was restored to consciousness and taken to a police station. Shortly afterwards an officer passing the cell discovered her hanging by the neck by a handkerchief from the bars over her cell door. He at once cut her down. She refused to tell the cause of her desiring to end her life. Subsequently she made two more attempts to hang herself she attempted to drown herself by putting her head under the water faucet and permitting the water to run. A watch was kept on her during the rest of the afternoon and night, and she made no other attempt at self-destruction. Her name is Emily Griffith and she claims to be a resident of Canada. She is about twenty-five years old.

WENT WEST.

Reasons Why a Young Man Suddenly Disappeared.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 30.—A week ago Peter Hershey, a member of the Lancaster bar, went to Philadelphia and made an assignment of his property and then mysteriously disappeared. An investigation by his assignee has developed that when he went away he took with him several thousand dollars, raised partly by notes. Hershey has borrowed sums of money from banks in this and Chester counties. From a Parkersburg bank 1,000 was secured; from a Westchester bank $300; from the First National Bank of this city $750, and from the Lancaster County National $1,000. His father's name appeared as the indorser on these notes. During the summer an agent for the sale of lands on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad had several long conferences with Hershey, and it is supposed that he has gone West.

A Skeleton in a Straw Stack.

FOSTERIA, O., Sept. 30.—While a farmer living near Carey, a few miles south of here, was scattering a straw-stack which had been standing a number of years, he discovered the remains of a man. Nothing was left but a suit of clothes incasing a skeleton. In the pockets were found a bottle, thirty-five cents and papers bearing date of 1880. He is supposed to have been a tramp intoxicated, who took shelter in the stack and either froze or smothered to death. The remains show evidence of having lain there several years.

A FOOLISH VIRGIN.

She Carries Around More Petroleum Than Necessary.

A Vermont Woman's Queer Break for Revenge—Deliberately Attempting to Arson—Some Extraordinary Letters—How a Detective Disguised Himself as a Tramp, and the Curious Things He Found Out While so Disguised.

TROY, Sept. 30.—Four months ago today the police were asked to investigate an attempt that had been made to burn the carriage factory of Strong Brothers, at Benson, Vt. Detective Rogers, who was put on the case, found that an old waistcoat saturated with kerosene and filled with pine chips had been used to start a fire in a lumber pile adjoining the factory.

The cloth was of peculiar pattern, and in a short time the detective found that Joseph Dusham, a French shoemaker, had a coat and trousers just like it. Dusham's wife, Esther, informed the detective that the night of the fire she had seen a tramp about the premises, and that the tramp had called on Mrs. Alexander Gibbs. Mrs. Gibbs said she saw the so-called tramp, who bore a resemblance to Mrs. Dusham. She said he wore a dark suit of clothes and a light-colored cap with a faded top. The detective questioned Mrs. Dusham and became satisfied that she had fired the lumber pile. The detective next secured the services of a French girl residing at Amsterdam. She visited Benson under the assumed name of Miss Fanny Wright, and secured a position as chambermaid at a hotel. She was soon on intimate terms with Mrs. Dusham, who confided the fact that she had been guilty of a serious crime against the Strong brothers. Her object was revenge, because they would not eject a family named Dwyer from a house owned by the Strong brothers near Mrs. Dusham's residence. A letter was received by Mr. Dwyer signed "D. B. & H. S.," warning him to get out of the house, and concluding as follows: "The evil one can't live with your family. They are a nuisance to the town, and you must keep them in the house or leave here, or we will make it so hot for you that you will wish you had never been born. We can do it, and by — we will. We give you your choice — to live in peace or live in Hades." Last Friday Detective Rogers visited Benson disguised as a tramp and verified all the facts obtained by his female assistant. Sunday morning a fire broke out in the house occupied by the Dusham family, and the family moved out. Rogers searched the premises and in the cellar found a cap which corresponded with the one described by Mrs. Gibbs as worn by the tramp. He asked Dusham if he had ever seen it before and the shoemaker said he had. It was one of his old caps which he had thrown aside. Wednesday warrants were secured and Detective Rogers arrested Mrs. Dusham and her husband. The woman confessed that she attempted to burn the factory while disguised as a tramp. She wanted to "get even with the Strong boys for not ordering Dwyer out of the house he occupied." Mrs. Dusham was held for the grand jury in $1,000 bail, but her husband was discharged, it being shown that he was ignorant of his wife's scheme.

ON A DRAWBRIDGE.

Wedding His Fourth Wife While Attending to His Duties.

RED BANK, N. J., Sept. 30.—Little Silver, a few miles from this place, was on Sunday the scene of one of the strangest weddings on record. The keeper of Port au Peck drawbridge, near Pleasure Bay, is William Berlin, who, although sixty-five years of age, had already led three blushing brides to the altar and survived them all. Of late he had been paying court to a Mrs. Lane, a comely widow of middle age residing at Oceanport. As the day approached which was set for William's fourth entanglement the bridge-keeper found that he could not obtain a substitute to attend the duties of bridge-tender while the ceremony was performed. A meeting was arranged to be held on the Port-au-Peck drawbridge on Sunday evening. A clergyman was procured from Long Branch, and during the intervals that Mr. Berlin was not occupied in opening and closing the draw to permit vessels on the Shrewsbury to pass through, the solemn words were spoken that made Drawbridge Keeper Berlin and Mrs. Lane of one flesh. An impromptu lunch was afterwards served on the bridge.

A Fourth Continuance.

VANDALIA, Ill., Sept. 30.—In the Fayette County Circuit Court a motion to continue the case of Sanford Noe, the Bon county wife-murderer, was argued and sustained, on account of the severe illness of Wm. H. Dawdy, leading counsel for the defense. This is the fourth continuance. Noe has been granted.

Postoffice Robbed.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Sept. 30.—The postoffice and store of Mr. D. P. Dyer, a Grain Valley, twelve miles east of here, of the Chicago & Alton railroad, has been burglarized. Two hundred dollars in money and the stock of cigars were taken. No clue.

Stabbed With a Fork.

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill., Sept. 30.—A Ridgeway, Ill., a man named Cox stabbed his little step-son, named Markham, with a fork, killing him. It is thought to be a case of murder, and the Coroner has been called upon to investigate the cause. Cox claims that it was an accident.

Death of an Old Kentucky Woman. LONDON, Ont., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Diana Colpus, colored, has died. Her age was 115. She was born at Danville, Ky., in 1768.

COLORADO POLITICS.

A Republican Senator's View of Republican Chances.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30.—Ex-Senator Tabor and wife are in the city. Mr. Tabor was asked who was the Republican choice in Colorado for the next President, and replied:

"If President Arthur was the candidate we could carry Colorado easier than with any other man. He has made a good President and the people are satisfied." "Hasn't Colorado got a favorite son or two? Might not Senator Hill have some expectations?" "Oh, no," and the Senator laughed a little. "Hill is only anxious to succeed himself. There are plenty of people in Colorado willing to be President, but I haven't heard of anybody who expects to be. No, there is no doubt about our carrying the State. Of course they beat us the last time, but there was a faction fight among the Republicans. There was treachery. It is admitted that Hill beat Campbell. I believe Hill boasts of it. He won't boast of it in a year from now. That was a local fight, and there is no reason why all Colorado Republicans should not vote for the Republican nominee for President."

FEENEY'S ANTECEDENTS.

The Would-Be Murderer in a Dominion Hospital.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 30.—John Feeny, the Irishman who attempted the life of the British Consul at New York, was an inmate of the Toronto general hospital from April 14 to May 14 of the present year. He reported himself as having been brought out to Canada by the emigration department. Mr. Miller, secretary of the hospital, says that Feeny was suffering from acute mania when admitted, and did not seem to improve much during his stay. While in the institution he was frequently subject to most extraordinary hallucinations, and seemed to be possessed of a peculiar animus against the British government. Owing to his strange vagaries, which were evidently the result of an unsound mind, the secretary had considerable trouble with him. Feeny left the hospital on the date named, having obtained an order for admittance to the House of Providence. At this latter institution he remained a few days, still behaving in a strange but not dangerous manner, and then left, it is believed, for Buffalo.

WAR AVERTED.

Origin and Settlement of an Indian Difficulty.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 30.—Later reports fully confirm General Howard's statement, recently published in these dispatches, that the Bannock-Shoshone difficulty is settled. Sometime ago a family of Bannocks, at Ross Fork Reservation, were murdered as supposed by Shoshones, and the braves of the former tribe threatened vengeance against the latter. In working up the case it was developed that the Bannock family was wiped out by a white trapper who had a natural aversion to red men and great admiration for their personal effects. The Bannocks at Washakie found the trapper's trail and following it up finally captured and killed him, throwing his body in a creek. When the friends and relatives of the murdered family learned that the outrage had been avenged they declared themselves satisfied, and at the time of General Howard's departure the best of feeling prevailed between the two tribes.

QUEER THEFT.

What Policeman Fulton Saw on a Street Corner.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—While Policeman Fulton was standing on the corner of Eleventh street and Montgomery avenue he noticed a middle-aged man and woman passing with a peculiar, lumbering gait. Suspecting that they had something heavy hidden under their clothes he arrested them. The woman had a shawl over her shoulder which completely hid her arms from view. She was directed to remove the shawl. She at first refused, but on seeing the officer would do so if she didn't she complied. The officer then discovered that her arms were completely hidden by lead pipe which she had coiled about them. From the pair the officer obtained over one hundred and fifty pounds of lead pipe which they had secreted about their bodies. The prisoners gave their names as Michael Hughes and Elizabeth Carter.

BREWSTER'S FLOWERS.

How the Attorney-General Turned Ugliness Into Beauty.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—During the improvements of the Potomac Flats several scow-loads of black muck which were taken out were dumped next to the causeway between the two channels and very near the Long Bridge. The sight presented was not a very pleasant one. It is said that Attorney-General Brewster, early in the summer, rode down to the flats with a number of friends, and when he saw the heaps of mud expressed great dissatisfaction, saying it was an unsightly place and he would try to remedy it. When he returned to his office he secured a lot of sunflower seed and sent a man down to the mud heaps to sow them. There is quite a sun-flower garden there.

A Suicide's Farewell.

SUNBURY, Pa., Sept. 30.—Charles Price, of Reading, and another young man named Shunk visited the Snyder County side of the river, using a small boat. They started to return home about 6:30 o'clock. When at a place where the water is known to be very deep Price got up from his seat and remarked, as he straightened himself, "Good-by, Bill." Then getting into a stooping position he sprang into the river and sank beneath the waves. Instant assistance was given him, but the drowning man failed to come up. The body was soon found.

A LOST GIRL FOUND.

The Wanderings of a Wayward Kansas Maiden.

Running Away From Home Because She Was Angry—Sad Parting at the Depot With Her Little Sister—Her Wanderings About From Place to Place—Affecting Scene When at Last Found By Her Heart-Broken Mother.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Sept. 30.—A fourteen-year-old girl named Iris Brown, daughter of Joshua Brown, a prominent citizen of Burlingame, in this State, was arrested here and handed over to her mother, who came up from Kansas City, where she had been searching for her. The girl disappeared from home two months ago, and continuous search was made for her until to-day, much of the time by her mother personally. Telegrams and descriptions were sent to all principal points, and several times clues were obtained, but they led to nothing, and when she received word to come to this city Mrs. Brown had almost given up all hope of ever seeing her daughter. The meeting was very affecting, the mother and child embracing and weeping for half an hour. The girl was clad in an old calico dress, but for all that exhibited a handsome, well-developed form and fresh and fair face, and in talking gave evidence of having been well educated for one of her age. She told the following story with perfect frankness and innocence: "I left home because I was mad. I bid my little sister good-by at the depot and sent her home crying as though her heart would break. Two gentlemen from Burlingame were on the train I took. They seemed to know I was running away, and one of them said he would follow me. I answered, 'You will have a big wild goose chase if you do.' At Topeka I stepped off the train into a dining room and slipped through a door unobserved by them and got back upon the train. I went to Armstrong and visited there awhile with people I knew, and then went to Kansas City and worked in a cracker factory. I was taken with fever and laid up several weeks. When I got better I went to the Delmonico and waited on table. I got acquainted with a number of girls. I returned to Armstrong and found that the clothes I had left there had been stolen, and I had nothing left but a calico dress. I returned to the Delmonico and several of the girls made it up to come to Leavenworth. There were Mary McSweeney, Mollie, Lillie and—I don't know their surnames—and Lillie Root. We came up here at the invitation of a man named Ode, who said waiter girls were wanted at the Planters'. I went from there to Mr. Keeling's, at the Fort, and staid until last Thursday, when I came down and applied for a position at the Continental, which they said I could have." It was learned afterward that she went to a house of ill-fame by the advice of one of her companions. She was innocent, but sick and weary and anxious to find a place to stay. The mistress of the house gave her a room and took care of her, refusing to let any one visit her. This latter statement can be relied upon as true.

INSANE MURDERER.

Belief That John McGinnis Will Escape Hanging.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 30.—There is every reason to believe that a reprieve will be obtained from the Board of Pardons for John McGinnis, who is condemned to hang on Thursday, October 4, for the murder of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary K. Reed. This change in the outlook for the wretched man is due to a conviction that has come upon those who are brought into frequent communication with him that he is insane. His head has been turned on the subject of religion, and his rhapsodies take such violent shapes at times as to render it unsafe for visitors to remain in the cell with him. Three insanity experts, Dr. Thomas H. Andrews, of the Jefferson Medical College; Dr. S. Preston Jones, of the Pennsylvania Hospital for the Insane; and Dr. Chas. K. Mells were employed to diagnose the prisoner's mental condition. They had an interview of an hour each with the patient on Monday and Tuesday last. They have embodied their conclusions in a paper addressed to the Board of Pardons, in which they report that the mind of McGinnis has been impaired. Sheriff Kiem also gives expression in an affidavit to his belief that the murderer is an irresponsible being.

STATESMEN'S FLATS.

A New Yorker Whose Head Bulges With a Big Scheme.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—A gentleman professing to represent New York capitalists has been here during the past few days examining the old capitol prison building, just opposite the front of the capitol building, asking the price of the property and of other ground and buildings adjoining, with the object, as he stated, of purchasing the ground and buildings, tearing down the latter and erecting on the site a large building with flats for the use of Congressmen and others. The walls of the building, as it now stands were the walls of the old prison, but the front and interior have long since been remodelled. It is now occupied as a boarding-house.

THE SLUGGERS.

The Sullivan Combination Ridiculed in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—The Sullivan Pugilistic Combination arrived in Baltimore and gave an exhibition at Kernan's Monumental Theater after the regular performance. Sullivan's sparring failed to come up to expectations, and when Slade hit him hard he was laughed at. In the fourth round he lost his temper and knocked the Maori off his feet. Slade saved himself by clutching a piece of scenery and kept from falling. He was loudly cheered. The excitement of the evening was the usual Baltimore row between the spectators at the close of the show over their respective favorites. The police promptly interfered.

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

"78 E. 64th St., New York, May 16, 1882. MESSRS. J. C. AYER & Co., Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved, until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred per cent stronger, and I attribute these results to the use of the SARSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used, in all, less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS."

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

cleanses, enriches, and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility, and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.

PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists; price $1, six bottles for $5.
